

Anthelio Appoints Seasoned Hospital Executive David White to Board of Directors

Media Contacts:
Gutenberg Communications
Mike Gallo
212.239.8594
anthelio@gutenbergpr.com

DALLAS, TX, July 28, 2011 – Anthelio, the leading independent provider of comprehensive healthcare information technology (IT) services and business process solutions for hospitals and other healthcare providers, today announced that David White, a seasoned hospital executive and entrepreneur, has joined the company as an independent director.

Mr. White recently served as President and Chief Executive Officer of IASIS Healthcare, after launching the company in 2000 with a $300 million investment from JLL. He still serves as Chairman of the Board.

Under his leadership, IASIS Healthcare has grown annual revenues from $815 million to more than $2.6 billion and has made significant advances in healthcare information technology, spending more than $100 million in support of these efforts. IASIS Healthcare was one of the first hospital companies in the U.S. with a common IT platform, and today owns and leases 17 hospitals with a total of 3,570 licensed beds.

A seasoned health care general manager, Mr. White has extensive experience in hospital operations spanning three decades throughout much of the United States. He has been involved with the industry at all levels and has a proven track record helping hospitals achieve operational excellence. Throughout his career he has worked for some of the most aggressive and fastest growing hospital companies, including Hospital Affiliates, Republic, Community Health and Columbia/HCA, and quickly developed a reputation as a turnaround executive.

“We are delighted to attract such a high level of talent and leadership to our board,” said Richard S. Garnick, Chairman & CEO of Anthelio Healthcare Solutions. “David further strengthens our deep domain expertise and complements the Healthcare Innovation Council and our commitment to bring thought leadership to the provider market. David’s proven experience and his many successes streamlining and aggressively growing hospital companies also acts as an independent validation of our strategy to help the healthcare provider market by focusing on fundamentally bending the cost curve while improving clinical care.”

“David’s clear insights into the power of information technology and back office functions, along with the value of an outsourced services model, will be invaluable as we help hospitals to focus their resources on their core competencies of patient care. This will be instrumental to the healthcare provider market, which is facing a perfect storm of pressures on a number of fronts,” added Mr. Garnick.

Mr. White serves on the Board of the Nashville Technology Council, as well as on the Board of an emerging medical device company developing a robotic heart catheterization. He earned a B.S in Business Administration from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, TN in 1970, and an M.S. in Healthcare Administration from Trinity University in San Antonio, TX in 1973.

Mr. White lives outside of Nashville, Tennessee with his family.

About Anthelio

Anthelio is the largest independent provider of information technology and business process services to hospitals, physician practice groups and other healthcare providers. Anthelio is the only healthcare services company that has “end-to-end” services expertise, including admission/registration, IT, medical records, EMR implementations, clinical transformation, coding, ICD-10, transcription and revenue cycle services. Using its extensive healthcare provider clinical and operational expertise, technology and business process re-engineering, Anthelio helps healthcare providers bend their ever-escalating cost curve and improve their delivery of patient care, quality and operational efficiency. Anthelio is headquartered in Dallas, Texas, and has over 2,000 employees in offices throughout the U.S. and in India. For additional information, visit

<http://www.antheliohealth.com>